So what in the world is a Techno-tainment camp anyway? Well, the first half means we're all about technology. PlanetBravo is Los Angeles' largest technology camp, and we're proud of it! We challenge students to explore the endless possibilities provided by computers and the multitude of programs available to them. Our instructors are highly-trained and strike the right balance between teaching important lessons and nurturing the students' critical thinking and problem-solving skills.

But it's not just double-clicks, ctrl+alt+deletes, and hard drives. At PlanetBravo, it's also about entertainment and fun! We don't keep our campers cooped up inside all day. We take them outside in the fresh air and sun to give them the play time and exercise they need and crave. And even though we think working on cool projects like video games and movies is already plenty of fun, we fill our days with ever-changing games and Surprise Seminars to keep our students engaged, entertained, and learning!
